2019 HIGHLIGHTS

As a diversified farm dedicated to soil and environmental health, Quaker Oaks Farm planted 6 acres of cover crops to improve soil fertility and spread over 40 tons of composted manure.

Quaker Oaks Farm is also dedicated to pollinator health. This year we planted over 1500 row feet of hedgerows using native plants (300 of them milkweed) to provide habitat for native pollinators, other beneficial insects and monarch butterflies.

Quaker Oaks Farm believes that farming can be a solution to global climate change by integrating practices such as cover cropping, compost application, mulching and hedgerow planting. These practices help sequester atmospheric carbon in the soil, therefore reducing the carbon in our atmosphere. This year QOF sequestered 22.4 CO2 equivalents of carbon dioxide.

To fulfill our desire to be good stewards of the land, Quaker Oaks Farm began an 8-acre riparian wetland restoration project on the Tule Tract area of the farm. This year we have removed 3 acres of exotic and invasive species and planted around 400 native plants and trees in the Tule Tract. This project is improving wildlife habitat corridors, water quality and ground water recharge. In addition, this project provides opportunities for hands-on educational programming for community members of all generations.

FROM THE BOARD CHAIR

This year brought both sadness and inspiration when our founders, Bill and Beth Lovett, passed in the summer of 2018. We are inspired to live up to the vision they shared when Quaker Oaks Farm was established as a public benefit (501c3) corporation in 2007, to create a place “Where good things happen”. When the mighty Valley Oak, for which the farm is named, fell in the spring of 2018 we were reminded that care of the land is central to our purpose and that we must think in terms of generations rather than years. We are all connected. We care for each other and the earth, and we will in turn be cared for. Please join us in caring for this very special place. Help make good things happen with a donation today. - Melissa Lovett-Adair

ANNUAL SPRING CAMP

Spring Camp 2019’s theme was Shoyum Oh’set - Sacred Fire in the Wukchumni language. We learned of the traditional uses of fire to enhance the land and practiced a controlled burn in the area designated as the Peace Garden. We also saw the after effects of wild fire during our visit to the Wishtoyo Chumash Village in Malibu, including both the potential to destroy and rejuvenate the land. Twenty youth participated from Native and Quaker communities around California. Youth leadership development rewards us every year. Our partnership with the Wukchumni Tribe and Pacific Yearly Meeting continues to deepen as we have now offered camp together for 6 years.

- Plans for 2020 -

Quaker Oaks Farm is currently seeking donations and support as we plan the following projects this year:

- Designing, building and installing educational kiosks in the restoration area.
- Renovations to the Lovett house including roof repair, flooring repairs, deferred maintenance and landscaping needs.
- Purchase of a dump trailer to aid in long term clean up of the farm.
